Campaign Includes Election Of Six Student Senators

Three students have entered their names as candidates for the office of Student Body President and will be officially placed before the students at the nominating convention today in the Horace Mann Auditorium at noon.

They are Roger Blackwell, Joe Merrigan, and Larry Timmerman.

Blackwell and Miller

Sigma Tau Gamma and Phi Mu are sponsoring Roger Blackwell and Karen Miller as their candidates.

Blackwell believes in the promotion of student activities for all students and student interest in their college—such activities as the recent Ugly Man Carnival, the Campus Radio Station, and the College Bowl.

Taking an active part in campus functions, he says he feels that the Student Government has made commendable advances under the leadership of Dale Cramer this past year.

He would like to continue in the same fashion.

Blackwell is a junior working toward an A.B. degree with a double major in history and business. At present, he is vice-president of the student body.

Karen Miller is a junior majoring in English and minoring in library science. She is from Loveland, Colorado.

Merrigan and Chick

Tau Kappa Epsilon and Alpha Sigma Alpha's candidates are Joe Merrigan and Anne Chick.

Merrigan states that he will take DEFINITE ACTION on all matters concerning students.

He is also interested in creating more interest in school activities such as the football games and the all-school dances. He believes that it is necessary to continue to have big name bands such as the ones we have had this year.

Besides trying to obtain good entertainment on campus, Merrigan and Miss Chick say they will do their best to represent the students in all matters.

Joe is a junior from Clyde, Missouri, majoring in mathematics, chemistry, and physics.

Anne Chick is a sophomore from Missouri Valley, Iowa. She is majoring in elementary education.

Timmerman and Crone

Phi Sigma Epsilon and Sigma Sigma Sigma's candidates are Larry Timmerman and Sue Crone.

Timmerman's platform, based on giving equal representation, includes trying to reorganize pep organizations and to have pep rallies the day of the game.

He will work with all organizations to give them equal status in student government. He will work with the townspeople in furthering the businessmen-college relations.

Timmerman advocates more dorm telephones, more assemblies such as the Kingston Trio, and fewer number of student elections.

Timmerman is a junior from Nodaway, Iowa. He is majoring in physical education and minoring in biology.

Miss Crone is a junior from Winston, Missouri. She is an elementary education major.

The general election will be held April 7 in the Administration Building. In addition to selecting the president and vice-president, two senators from each class will be elected.

Sunrise Services at Easter Hold Interesting Traditions

Ever wonder why sunrise services on Easter are so popular? People never seem to want to attend church at that early hour any other Sunday of the year—only on Easter morn.

Good Fortune Is Assured

It seems the tradition of rising with the sun on Easter morn was derived from an ancient peasant belief that those who witnessed sun-up on a certain spring day would be bountifully blessed with good fortune throughout the entire year.

Even the farm animals were included in this belief; the cows, pigs, and hens were roused early and hurried out to see the sun; this insured lots of cream, bacon, and eggs for the coming year.

The modern day version of this rural custom is the holding of countless sunrise services on Easter morning. The giant dawn service at Hollywood Bowl is the best-known of these, but so far no cows or chickens have attended this service. Customs modify themselves considerably through the years.

Service To Be Tommorow

In this day and age only the people attend the services, rural and city folk alike. Our own NWMSC students are given the opportunity to attend an Easter sunrise service on March 30.

Those who attend will be blessed with a prosperous year and good fortune. Will we see you there?

Names Man of the Month

A Closer Look at Blue Key

After reading about Blue Key's Man of the Month in a recent Missourian, many students have expressed a desire to know more about the purpose and activities of Blue Key society.

The NWMSC chapter of Blue Key was organized in February, 1960, with Dr. Frank Grubé, advisor, and a half-dozen students attending the first meeting.

In May, all of the arrangements were completed, and the chapter was installed nationally. Representatives from four colleges and a national officer attended.

Has Made Accomplishments

In this single year, despite the concern and effort on completing the arrangements for the installation and acceptance of national Blue Key, Blue Key points to a number of accomplishments on campus, reports Dr. Grube.

There are two sides to Blue Key—the honorary, and the help on campus. One of its purposes is to honor men who have been leaders in college activities. Another purpose is that it pools the ability of all these men to work for more effective participation in student activities.

Inquiring Photographer

Question: If it were in your power what one thing would you do to improve our campus? Jerry Johnson, junior, Oakland, Iowa

"I would make a decree for the enlargement of the rooms at Horace Mann for student teaching."

Pat Reinert, senior, Savannah, Missouri

"I would see to it that we had more telephones in Residence Hall."

Wayne Anderson, senior, Audubon, Iowa

"I'd push the idea of boats for the fellows who have to walk back and forth to the Quads in rainy weather."

Stephanie Johnson, senior, St. Joseph, Missouri

"I think more student interest and participation is needed in everything that goes on around campus."

Jeanette Bjorn, senior, Exira, Iowa

"I would extend the hours in Residence Hall a half hour on week nights and an hour on week ends."

Don Schooler, senior, Chillicothe, Missouri

"I would order more tables and chairs for the Bearcat Den."

Suggestions for questions for the inquiring photographer to ask are welcomed. Students are encouraged to present these ideas to a member of the staff or bring them in to the Missourian office (Classroom 109).

Land of Logic

From the description of the bear's walk his den could only be at the North Pole. He must be white.

Deep in the Land of Logic there is a big lake in the middle of which is the island of Crombovia. There are two races of people in Crombovia. The Cromites are incapable of telling the truth. The Bovines can never tell a lie. Walking through the island, you meet three natives and ask them which race they belong to. The first murmurs you don't quite understand. The second helps him out with the remark, "He said he was a Cromite." The third says to the second, "You're a liar." How would you know immediately the race of the third person?

Every inhabitant of Crombovia would always answer that he was a Bovine, because (Continued on Page Four)

The Stroller suggests to the future candidates on Campus Bowl to be well-versed on puns. One of the contestants in the first contest, however, was so familiar with the pun that she couldn't think of the real answer. This is what came out:

People who live in grass houses shouldn't stow thrones . . .

(Continued from Page Two) Cromites couldn't tell the truth and Bovines couldn't lie. Therefore the second man must have been lying (a Cromite) and the third man, in calling the Cromite a liar, was a truth-telling Bovine:

Driving toward the capital of Crombovia with new confidence, you suddenly come to a fork in the road where one of the natives is standing alone in the sun. You would like to ask the gentleman which fork to take for the capital but you don't know whether he's a Bovine or a Cromite. How would you phrase your question—only one question is allowed—so that no matter which race he belonged to his answer would tell you which fork to take.

You ask: "If you were a member of the other race on this island, and I asked you which road went to the capital, what would you tell me?"

Leaving Crombovia by motorboat, you pull in at a marina for two gallons of gas. Spotting you as a foreigner from the Illogical World beyond the mountains, the serviceman says: "I'll give you your gas free if you tell me how I can measure out two gallons from this five-gallon can and this eight-gallon can."

You promptly step out of boat, fill the five-gallon can, and pour its contents into the eight-gallon can. You fill the five-gallon can again and pour as much of it as possible (three gallons) into the eight-gallon can. This leaves two gallons in the smaller can.

Thinking how easy it is to think logically, you suddenly find yourself in a dark forest in front of a wizard's house. "I have nine emeralds," says the wizard of Logic-Land. "All the emeralds weigh the same except one which weighs a little less. Here is a balance scale. If you find the light one in two weighings, all the emeralds are yours. If you do not I shall turn you into a syllogism."

Cramer added that the standings might be changed after the addition of tallies accumulated from bowling and volleyball competition.
